Background

The Itg-Beta3 gene encodes the beta subunit of the platelet membrane adhesive protein receptor complex Itg-Beta3 protein, which belongs to the

Integrin class of cell adhesion molecule receptors that share a common heterotrimeric structure with α and β subunits. It is a common β subunit of the platelet complex and of two other Integrins (Fibronectin and Vitronectin Receptors), which have distinct α subunits. Itg-Beta3 has been implicated in a wide variety of functions, including platelet aggregation and thrombosis and implantation, placentation, angiogenesis, bone remodeling, and tumor progression. Glanzmann Thrombasthenia can result from defects in the genes for either the Itg- α 2B or the Itg-Beta3 subunit
